Campus Clubs Organized For War Council; First Meeting on Thursday

All Groups to Be Represented on Executive

The Students' Executive Council met at its meeting last night decided, for the purpose of closer co-operation in the newly formed War Council, to organize the clubs and societies on the campus into groups, according to their main interests and functions.

There will be separate groups for the following: Athletic Clubs, Entertainment Clubs, Language Clubs, Cultural Clubs, Science Clubs, Pastime (Hobby) Clubs, and Religious Societies. There will also be a Publication Group and an Undergraduate Societies Group.

Each one of these groups will be asked to elect a Chairman, who will represent his group on an executive committee, to which two members will also be appointed from the Students' Executive Council.

The date for the first meeting of the War Council was set, for Thursday afternoon, October 30th, at 5.00 p.m., in the McGill Union. The War Council will meet on Thursday.

The elections themselves will take place on Wednesday, commencing at 9 o'clock a.m. in the Arts Building. (Continued on Page Four)

McGill Night Courses Popular with Montrealers

Attendance at the McGill University extension classes is high, according to the reports issued recently.

Among the lectures offered is a series on the Americas, given by Prof. E. R. Adair. Miss Idola St. Jean is conducting French classes, which are divided into four groups, elementary, intermediate, advanced, and a special class in diction. A series of lectures on "Chemistry and Technology of Resins and Plastics" by Dr. R. V. V. Nicholls, is drawing a large number of students. Spanish has come into prominence in the language series, and there are 40 students attending the class conducted by Mrs. R. E. Henry.

The weather was ideal that autumn Saturday, the crowd just fair, mostly from the Point, and as one watched the blue and gold clad Oilers go through their practice paces and strained the eyes to follow the Bummer's cloud scraping punts, one had the feeling that a truly great team would be seen in action that P.M.

Entertainers Needed for Frosh Cabaret

Floor Show To Be Feature of Gala Evening

The entertainment committee for the Cabaret, to be held Tuesday, November 4th, has issued an S.O.S. for Freshman talent. They have planned what they call a "gala evening," with a faculty speaker and various sorts of entertainment. The program will make the dance somewhat similar to a night club, with a floor show and cabaret-style dancing.

This party-dance is taking the place of the usual Freshman-Freshette Dinner Dance. The committee has decided that, due to more important considerations in war time, the dinner will not be held this year, and the "dinnerless dance" has been arranged instead.

However, the committee finds that there has not been a sufficiently large response to the call issued for Freshmen entertainers. The program is to be put on by members of the Freshman Class, and every talented Freshman and Freshette is needed. All sorts of entertainers are in demand, especially those who are willing to take part in skits. It is requested that all Freshmen and Freshettes interested in taking part in the entertainment program leave their names in the Union Tuck Shop.

RVC Scientists Plan Program

June Perry Is New First Year Representative

At a luncheon meeting held yesterday in the Union Grill Room by the Women's Science Club, it was decided that activities this year will take the form of monthly teas, to take place at 5.15 p.m. in the R.V.C. Common Room. These teas will be held alternately on Tuesday one month and Friday the next. This policy has been adopted in order to accommodate all the members of the club, since no one day was found which was convenient to all.

Marion Savage, president of the club, expressed her satisfaction at the large turnout, there being more than sixty girls present. She conducted the election for First Year representative, and June Perry was chosen for the position.

Deadline Is Set For Pre-Med Nominations

The Pre-Medical will hold its second meeting of the term on Thursday, October 30th, in the Union Grill Room. Plans will be discussed for the tea to be held on November 16th. This will be the last day on which nominations will be received for president and vice-president. The deadline will be before the end of the meeting in order that there will be enough time left for a vote to be held. Pre-Meds are reminded that they may hand in their nominations to any member of the executive or to a class representative at or before the meeting.

The part to be played by the Pre-Med Society in the McGill War Effort will be included in the discussion. Arrangements for classes in St. John's Ambulance for men will be made. The co-eds will have a similar course in their military training program. Pre-med students are advised to take this course. Certificates will be issued to all successful candidates.

People Forum Hears Address By Strasser

Cites Reasons Why Germany Cannot Win

The People's Forum of Montreal opened its 28th season last night in the Montreal High School Auditorium, when a capacity crowd heard Dr. Otto Strasser, founder of the Black Front, and Chairman of the Free German Movement, deliver his initial North American address on the subject, "Why Hitler Cannot Win the War." Dr. Strasser was introduced by Dr. Laurence Tombs, President of the Forum, who referred briefly to the speaker's writings and eventful life.

Dr. Strasser in reviewing his reasons why Hitler cannot win the war listed them under three main headings, namely: military, economic and morale. He declared that although the verdict may yet appear to be in the hands of fate, Hitler had lost the war a year ago. In leading to this conclusion he outlined a series of the German Leader's military miscalculations, such as the idea that Britain would not fight, and culminating in the failure of the German air offensive over Britain last year. This latter battle he compared to the German (Continued on Page Four)

Chess Club Invites Coeds

Club to Meet Tomorrow in Reading Room

The first regular meeting this season of the McGill Chess Club will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Reading room of the Union. An outline of the program for the coming year will be discussed briefly, and elections will be held for the two remaining posts on the executive.

The club has announced a completely renovated policy for the coming season. The first innovation, shattering some of the oldest traditions of the club, and of the Union, is the admission of women as regular members. Other changes include the serving of refreshments at meetings and an organized instructional class for new members, who are not familiar with the game. Spanish Club To See Film

Meeting Will Take Place in Union Thurs.

The Club Hispanico's opening meeting this season will be held Thursday night at 8:15 in the Union Grill Room. Featured at this opening meeting are Technicolor movies of a South American trip, which have been loaned by Dr. Marchand.

The meetings of the Club are open to all interested in Spanish. The meetings will be conducted as informally as possible, the executive announces, so that even those who know little Spanish may take part, becoming more fluent in the language as they go along. Even first year students will have no difficulty, the president stated.

The Spanish Club was organized to extend appreciation of the Spanish language and culture, and to provide an opportunity for members to gain closer understanding with the life and outlook of citizens in other countries of the Western Hemisphere.

Phone To Be Installed For Use of Students

The Executive of the Arts Undergraduate Society has announced that they will be unable to put back the phone which used to be in the men's Common Room, on its former basis as a free phone open to the use of anyone.

The change is owing to a clause in the tariff of the Bell Telephone Co. (which is drafted by the Ministry of Transport, and to which the Company must adhere) stipulates that "where a large group of people, or a society, use a phone stationed in a centrally located place for purposes other than business, that phone must be a public pay one."

A pay phone is on its way to the Arts Building now and it will be placed in a public position for general use.

Hayride and Dance Planned For Hallowe'en

Tonight at 8.15 in the Union Cafeteria a smoker is to be given for all male students of the Arts and Science Faculties. Those who attend this party will receive plenty of beer and pretzels, smokes and cokes. The attendance at this party is strictly limited to the men of the Arts and Science Faculties.

In addition to the above, various forms of entertainment have been planned by the committee. This entertainment will take the form of movie reels, speeches and singing. The songs will be mainly reminiscent of winter, snow and skis. Jock Smith, well known and popular piper of the C.O.T.C. will be on hand, to add a touch of variety to the party, by giving a few renditions.

The first speech will deal with the past activities and accomplishments of the Undergraduate Society, and will be delivered by the past president, Bob Spencer.

The second speech is to be given by Tom Mulligan, the president for the year. He will talk about plans that have been made for the season. Finally, the candidates for the coming elections in the Faculties of Arts and Science will be introduced to the gathering.

M.W.S.A.A. to Meet in R.V.C.

Gathering Today Will Hear Reports

This afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Common Room at R.V.C. a meeting of the M.W.S.A.A. will be held. Pat Neilson, president of the association, will preside and give a general outline of the program to be followed this coming year. She will call upon the managers of the different sports activities to give accounts of their proposed programs for the year. Reports will also be presented on the past activities of the Association.

Since no Senior and Junior M's can be awarded to students until they have obtained academic standing in their first year and been enrolled in their second, the awards to be given out today are mostly those won by Freshmen last year and withheld.

Tea will be served and the executive of the M.W.S.A.A. has expressed the wish that all members might attend. All students who register at the University and pay their fees automatically become members of the Women's Athletic Association. This meeting will give the Freshies an opportunity to get acquainted with the program which the Association has planned for the year.

Students Contribute 30,456 Cents As Steady Rains Fail to Dampen Spirits in Drive's Opening Day

Pennies Fall With Rain as Campaign Opens

R.C.A.F., Profs Deposit Coins On White Line

By K.M.

"Every time it rains, it rains pennies from heaven." The line from the old song really applied yesterday as the pennies poured opposition to the elements. The many coins that came from the Air Force were due in large part to the activities of a beautiful blonde co-ed who served as liaison officer.

The Faculty was up in the front line with contributions—Prof. John Thomas Culliton laid his pennies on the line, as did Prof. Ross and several others. Comment ran high, and reached its peak in the remark of Phinnie Fletcher: "It's darn hard on the blood pressure to lay down pennies."

Among other things, the committee would like to know why the girls went to R.V.C. at lunchtime by way of the Physics Building, instead of through the Roddick Gates.

A tribute to Don Delvin, who pushed a tennis court marker up and down from the gates to the Arts Building on Sunday: "Don Delvin worked like h--- Sunday afternoon"—Willis. The pennies were counted in Phinnie's office by the Students' Executive Council—which only goes to prove that those in the highest places will stoop from their positions for the sake of filthy lucre.

Eire Interns P.O. R. Keefer

Football, Hockey; Star at McGill Lands Bomber

Mrs. F. K. Keefer, of Montreal, received word via cable from the British Air Ministry that her son, Pilot Officer R. G. Keefer, R.C.A.F., has been interned in Eire. He was flying a bomber over Ireland October 24, and was forced down. Also interned were the other members of the crew, which included P.O. Jack Calder, former Canadian newspaperman, who was observer in the bomber.

P.O. Keefer is a former student of McGill University. While at the University, he was one of the star football players, and he was a member of the hockey team. (Continued on Page Four)

Medical Officer States Students' Health Good

"The health of the youth of today is good, contrary to allegations that it has deteriorated since the last Great War. Dr. F. G. Pedley, the university health officer says that the findings of the McGill Students' health service substantiate this statement.

Dr. Pedley remarked that he had found no evidence to indicate the health of Canadian youth has deteriorated. He went on to state, however, that the fact which should give us concern was that conditions which are both preventable and remedial have been disclosed. It was suggested that the reason that so many more men had been rejected from the army than in the last war was that the medical examinations given were more exacting than formerly.

Dr. Jameson Addresses Meds

Tells of Health Conditions in England Today

Sir Wilson Jameson, chief medical officer of the Ministry of Health of Great Britain, addressed the members of the staff and medical students in the assembly hall of the McGill Medical building at noon yesterday. He was introduced by Dr. Fleming, former Dean of Faculty of Medicine and head of the department of Public Health.

Dr. Jameson spoke on the exigencies, that have arisen on the matter of public health during the war, and recalled that at the beginning of the war everyone expected a great number of casualties and epidemics to break out. On the contrary, however, he said the English are not bothered by those; but it is the little annoying things that occur daily that bother them; such as sending away their children to the country. Dr. Jameson asserted that the youngsters, on the whole, love the country and are greatly benefiting by it, although their parents find it much too quiet and have returned to the city.

Dr. Jameson stressed the three great changes brought about in the public health conditions of England by the war: the change from the old form of family life, the movement of large numbers of children to the country, and lastly the discovery of the Gallup Poll—that more than 50 per cent of the people are in favour of having government (Continued on Page Four)

Reports Say O'Neill Missing

Ex-McGill Man In Operations Over Germany

Pilot Officer Gordon Campbell O'Neill, R.C.A.F., has been reported as missing following operations over Germany last October 22 and 23.

P.O. O'Neill is a son of Dr. J. J. O'Neill, Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research at McGill. He is a graduate of Westmount High School and he was a student at McGill before he discontinued his studies to serve in the Air Force. He had completed his preliminary Science Year at McGill, and had also finished two years in the Faculty of Engineering, in preparation for the degree of Mining Engineer.

In July, 1940, P.O. O'Neill joined the R.C.A.F. After spending some time overseas, he became attached to the R.A.F. Ferry Command, in the capacity of observer.

Dr. and Mrs. O'Neill, who are residents of Westmount, are expecting further news, which comes through by way of the International Red Cross in Germany.

British Delegate Speaks At I.L.O. Conference

The International Labour Office yesterday opened its first conference since the outbreak of war at a meeting at Columbia University attended by delegates of 33 nations.

Speaking to the assembled body, Sir Frederick Leggett, delegate from the British Government, maintained that the war had increased the working hours of the average British labourer to a point incompatible with efficiency. As a remedy, he suggested the return to a six-day working week with a maximum of sixty hours, claiming this would result in no drop in essential war production.

In order to facilitate further meeting of the I.L.O., arm of the League of Nations now situated on the McGill campus, the Canadian Government has removed all exchange restrictions upon the body's funds.

A Word to the Freshmen...

Your first month of College Life is nearly over; the riotous round of entertainment planned for you is all but concluded, and most of you are thinking seriously of the question of studies.

There are some, of course, who do not think of the future, and carry the care-free life right through till May; there are others who take no part whatsoever in College Life, and hold their noses religiously to the grindstone throughout the session. But the majority will adopt the course taken by all those students who have made a real success of their college career—something of what Horace meant when he wrote of "aurea mediocritas."

The principle of the Golden Mean, then, should be the Freshman's guide. Let him assess candidly his position with regard to his classes and ascertain just how much study is required to keep him abreast of the work. Then, let him fill out his schedule with extra-curricular activities on such lines as he pleases.

The end of the first month of college is perhaps the ideal time to do this. If the student feels he is dangerously behind in his work, then he should, for his own benefit, face the admittedly unpleasant task of dropping some of his outside activities. On the other hand, if he is keeping well up in his studies, he may undertake further activities—providing he has the spare time. If the Freshmen heed this rule, they need not fear the exams in April and May.

Asbestos Will Be Worn

(The following editorial is reprinted from the Varsity, undergraduate daily paper at the University of Toronto. The Editorial should be of interest to the McGill student body inasmuch as it provides an indication of "how others see us."—Editor.)

We certainly wonder what Hitler will think of that wire from McGill, if it reaches him. Unfortunately it is only too likely that the message will never get past the first line of those whose business it is to keep der Fuehrer from losing his temper. But if he does receive it, it is first of all, very probable that he will not get the pun. And secondly, there is a possibility that he will take the whole matter very, very seriously and vow not to leave one stone of McGill University upon another when der tag arrives. Finally, there is the happy thought that he may perhaps miss the whole connection, and break into a de-luded smile at the thought that Canadian students, having presumably seen the light, are making humble endeavours to honour him, in their outlandish way.

Even though the McGill telegram has no such interesting results, Hitler may in the long run find that it was extremely meaningful. For it was not simply an isolated joke on the part of a few students; it was delivered on the occasion of the largest military display ever held by a Canadian university. Sarcastic messages, and the burning of effigies, will not help to overcome Nazism in themselves; but when they express feelings which are being backed up with forceful activity, they are the smoke which indicates a fire.

McGill University is to be congratulated on its serious contribution to the national war effort, which so far this year has included the enrolment of both men and women students in compulsory training for war service, and the successful prosecution of an aluminum drive. Its students have earned the right to draw attention, by the spectacular methods they have employed, to the work they are doing and to the object they want to achieve.

for lowbrows only

BY TREBOR

During the last war a school of writing sprang up that was destined to become the "enfant terrible" of modern literature. It was the passion child of confusion and abnegation and burst in upon a disillusioned world with a cry and a clangor that has been sounding ever since. This is the Dadaist group, later to be called the Surrealists.

Dadaism was a queer special development of symbolism, growing directly out of the symbolist tradition, and based on the "Chants de Maldoror," a book of sadistic and scandalous visions by Isidore Ducasse, a writer of the first symbolist generation. But its only contribution to the literary world has been confusion.

It came to the critics as a complete surprise and the inevitable followed. The serious and naive said: "Behold! An arch-symbolism!", while the sceptical said: "Watch it, brother. They're selling you a pup!" The more advanced symbolists were enthusiastically behind the latter. Edith Sitwell, for instance, alarmed that her "technical exercises" should be spoken of along with the work of some surrealists, goes out of her way to slander them into meaninglessness.

In its earliest stages, Dadaism was avowedly meaningless; it was just a complete abnegation of established values. Later, when its protagonists took to automatic writing though still intent on the destruction of conventional literature, they called themselves Surrealists and claimed adherence to some sort of creed.

In the words of David Gascoyne, "It is the avowed aim of the surrealist movement to reduce and finally to dispose altogether of the flagrant contradictions that exist between dream and waking life, the 'unreal' and the 'real,' the unconscious and the conscious, and thus make of what has hitherto been regarded as the special domain of poets, the acknowledged common property of all."

That is all very well, but just as seriously, in answer to the question "What is surrealism?", Andre Breton, a more active member of the group, gives the lucid reply: "It is the cowl of the hotel mouse dear to Victor Brauner!" Unfortunately surrealism cannot be summarily dismissed, for the automatic writing that it postulates may be a highly advanced symbolist technique. Yet, because of its intimate connection with Dadaism and systematic nonsense, it cannot be freely accepted. It will remain, supposedly, a leering, incoherent goblin, signifying little that is understandable to the layman, but to its devotees indicating a healthy desire to break away from all conventions.

Another borderline case that has contributed to the confusion of the modern writing field is Miss Gertrude Stein, an authoress who has probably caused the downfall of more critics than any other literary person of our times. Only one thing about Miss Stein is certain, though not too certain. She is not a surrealist; she has a definite program of values that she tries to embody in her writing.

She began as a realist, catching the rhythms and accents of the minds of her characters, with a style of limpid and slightly monotonous simplicity. But this soon fell into a "fatty degeneration." Her efforts became too conscious, and the rhythmic repetitions that were so successful at first were later carried to such immoderate lengths as to suggest some technique of mesmerism. One tends to fall happily to sleep on reading her books of this period. It must be said, however, that although most of her writing was queer and very boring, up to this point it was intelligible.

But in her books written after 1914, her technique becomes an attempt to express the instinctive movements of the mind through a language based of its usual meaning. In this category are "Portrait of Mabel Dodge," "Tender Buttons," and "Four Saints in Three Acts," the intelligibility of all three being very much in question. A few samples from the last mentioned may be revealing.

1. "To know to know to love her so. Four saints prepare for saints. It makes it well fish. Four saints it makes it well fish."
2. "The difference between saints forget-me-nots and mountains have to have to have to at a time."

Mr. George Jean Nathan finds a great deal of humour in this, and comes to the conclusion that "Gertie is a very shrewd and sapient girl who deliberately plans her writing performances as absurdity, and who appreciates that if you keep up absurdity long enough, and with a perfectly straight face, there will always be critics who will mistake the 'four de force' for some strange and inscrutable kind of wayward genius."

Strangely enough, there are many such critics, many at least who agree on the point that Miss Stein has genius. As for its waywardness, Miss Stein's writing seems to be an excellent example of the symbolist movement, carried to an extreme. She has become too subjective, too completely out of touch with understandability and communication. She is the symbolist without the tempering influences of naturalism.

Tchaikovsky Night.

If you ask the average music listener to name his favourite composer, it's a good bet that he'll immediately reply: "Tchaikovsky, of course." It appears that this great Russian master had that indefinable "something" which has endeared his music to the hearts of millions throughout the world.

Even the boys around Tin Pan Alley have gone for Peter Ilyitch's music in a very big way. For during the past few years, no fewer than eight of his tunes have been "moulded" into "popular" songs. The latest of these is "Tchaikovsky's B-flat Minor Piano Concerto" which is at present heading Tin Pan Alley's best-seller list under the titles of "Tonight We Love" and "Concerto for Two."

Tonight, music enthusiasts will have the rare opportunity of hearing two of Tchaikovsky's greatest works—his Symphonies No. 4 and 6 played by two orchestras which are very worthy of interpreting this fine music.

Exactly forty-eight years ago tonight, the great "Pathétique" Symphony (No. 6) was given its premiere performance in St. Petersburg under the composer's own baton. The NBC Symphony Orchestra, under Eftem Kurtz, brilliant Russian-born conductor making his second guest appearance with the orchestra, will feature it on its fourth concert of the present season which will be carried locally by Station CBF at 10.30 p.m. (The complete concert will be heard). The concert will consist of but one other selection, the Overture to Glinka's "Russian and Ludmilla," which will open the broadcast.

Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 4 will be played by the Toronto Symphony Orchestra under the direction of its permanent conductor Sir Ernest Macmillan (CBM 9.30) Sir Ernest will be remembered for his rendition of this Symphony at one of last summer's concerts given at the Mt. Royal Chalet. The Canadian soprano Jeanne Dusseau will be the soloist, singing a selection from Weber's "Oberon."

Along the Air Waves.

Edward G. Robinson's "Big-Town" observes the Halloween season of hobgoblins and witches with a hair-raising drama called "The Skeleton in the Closet" (Wed. CKAC 9 p.m.) Bill Stern takes his microphone to the Yankee Stadium in New York to cover the top game of the week-end—the annual Army-Notre Dame classic (CFCE 2.45 p.m.) . . . The local National Hockey League season gets under way next Saturday evening when the Detroit Red Wings meet our Canadiens. The play-by-play description of the last two periods will be carried by Station CBF at 8.00 p.m. . . .

Robert Casadesu, eminent French pianist, is soloist; and John Barbirolli conducts the New York Philharmonic-Symphony in a Mozart-Ravel program on Sunday (CKAC 4.00 p.m.) Casadesu plays Mozart's C Minor Concerto, played for the first time at a Philharmonic-Symphony concert on this occasion. He also is soloist in Ravel's Piano Concerto for the Left Hand, written for the pianist Wittgenstein, whose right arm was amputated in the First World War. Barbirolli directs the orchestra in Mozart's G Minor Symphony No. 25. . . . Popular tenor James Melton is guest of Conductor Andre Kostelanetz and Violinist Albert Spalding in "The Pause that Refreshes on the Air" (Sun. CKAC 5.30 p.m.)

Radiolity.

While rehearsing as guest conductor of the "Ford Sunday Evening Hour," Sir Thomas Beecham learned at a control-room conference that the planned performance of Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" was a bit too long for the program. In his very British manner, Sir Thomas walked back to the podium to announce to the orchestra: "Gentlemen, Mr. Mendelssohn made a grave miscalculation composing this work. He wrote it three-quarters of a minute too long."

Film Reviews

AT LOEW'S

"The Little Foxes," now in its second week at Loew's Theatre, is a brilliant example of a successful translation of a play from stage to screen. Originally at play by Lillian Hellman, this stark history of human decadence has been, by virtue of a fine script, intelligent direction, and a sympathetic cast, presented as an exceptional motion picture.

The story of "The Little Foxes" is the story of the Hubbard-Giddens family, and, more particularly, of Regina Giddens, a symbol of greed and the lust for power, one of the "little foxes" who eat the vines. It is the story of a consuming egoism, a human will with the strength to absorb or conquer all opposition to it.

Bette Davis, starring as Regina, the part created by Tallulah Bankhead on the stage, brings to the characterization a masterful understanding and flawless technique. By the subtlety of her playing she is able to create an atmosphere of malignant evil that a lesser actress would not have been able to convey.

Herbert Marshall turns in a performance that should be remembered as one of the highlights of his career. As Regina's husband, a man sick and impotent in the face of the tidal wave of his wife's ambition, he acts with effective restraint throughout.

Among many other noteworthy characterizations, that of Patricia Collinge seems particularly deserving of mention. Miss Collinge, imported from Broadway to play Birdie, Regina's dipsomaniac sister-in-law, contributes a moving picture of frustration and misery as a gentle, inadequate woman, caught in the filthy mire of the family.

"The Little Foxes" is a remarkable picture. There is a successful blending of screen technique and theatrical artistry. Instead of distorting the vital spark of the play, the screen has expanded and displayed more fully the full power of this drama of personalities.

A Welcome Visitor.

A well-known and much loved personality around R.V.C. some two years ago has returned to McGill for a short visit. Mrs. Maud Grant, former Warden of the Royal Victoria College, now residing in Toronto, is spending a few days in Montreal, and was greeted with much enthusiasm by the upper-classmen who knew her. Mrs. Grant, retired from active university life, is devoting much of her time to war work.

The excellent attendance at the Women's Union meeting last Friday greatly facilitated the business to be carried on. Pat Neilson, M.W.S.A.A. For the benefit of newcomers, who may be unaware of the fact, we may repeat that all women undergrads are members of the McGill Women Students' Athletic Association, which provides for the recreational needs of its members, and integrates the various women's athletic activities on the campus.

Not About Women.

An up-and-coming young businessman in this city (recently departed from our Alma Mater) was doing some private sleuthing on his own trying to track down a slippery customer. Having a cousin in the debtor's home town, a tiny hamlet "Somewhere in Northern Ontario," our grad informed him to wire when his quarry got into town. Since a telegram would be of general interest to the whole population (some 250 inhabitants), our friend told his cousin to send birthday greetings, which would appear quite innocent yet would give him the cue he wanted. Some two weeks later our friend's mother was stunned to receive the message over the phone, "Congratulations and best wishes to you and Anabel." He is still trying to convince his family that nothing happened on that last Toronto week-end.

Urgent Request.

The most amusing summer tale that has reached us so far was related by one of the Physical Eds, who was returning from a Laureate camp with several other co-eds—also counselors. As the train neared Montreal a desperate whisper came from the seat behind, "Have you got any peppermints?" "No," replied our informant, used to dealing with bus-sick campers, "do you want me to get you some?" "Yes," the request was urgent, so she dashed off in search of the required candies, and unable to get any, came back with a package of gum instead, which the other chewed with apparent relief.

"Do you feel better now?" our informant enquired.
"Sure, I feel fine," was the reply. Then the light dawned, "Oh, I wasn't sick. It's just that my father's meeting me at the station and I didn't want him to know that I'd been smoking."

Substitution.

Unheralded has been the entrance of lisle stockings onto the campus. We suspect that the rising cost of clothing coupled with stationary allowances, as well as the Red Cross Corps requirements, have more to do with their steady infiltration than the silk shortage, which has not yet become evident in this country. Recalling the steady stream of comment that met the daring wearers of knee socks of brilliant hue some two seasons back, we would hazard a guess that the war and military training have given our men folk something more to think about than feminine apparel.

Chinese Funeral Dirge.

Foreign observers were startled when a Chinese funeral band, leading a procession to a Shanghai cemetery, burst out brassy with the unmistakable notes of "I wonder Who's Kissing Her Now?" The funeral was that of a wealthy man known for his amours.

Mile of Pennies.

The seven rows of pennies are steadily progressing along the white lines toward the Founder's Tomb. Although more than 3,000 were laid down today, over one-third of the total, the goal will not be reached without everyone's contribution. Have you put down your 50 yet?

McGill Students and the War

Dear Sir,—The interest that has been aroused by the prospect of a McGill Students' War Council has quite definitely proven that McGill students are anxious to adopt the most efficient methods to ensure that their contribution to Victory and the utter annihilation of fascism will be an effective one.

We have learnt that nothing, save our own vigorous efforts can save us from destruction. This lesson has been hammered home by the development of German fascism whose success has depended on the isolation and subsequent destruction of each victim.

How real is the threat to our own national security can and will be realized if we would reflect but for a moment upon the grave and untenable position Canada would be in if the resistance of the British people had been less resolute or the fight of our allies, the Soviets, been less obstinately or skillfully conducted.

As Canadians and students we are in this fight. The fact that we are students puts an additional responsibility upon us. We have had the opportunity to study, read and reflect more than others. The knowledge acquired is important at all times, but especially in the solution of present war problems and will also be invaluable in the shaping of the post-war era. However, our knowledge can never be complete unless tempered and tested by experience today. Our sincerity in the attainment of a juster and happier world, can never be above question if our action for Victory in this our critical hour of National existence has been feeble. So let each of us offer concrete proposals to give dash, vision and colour to our efforts!

The formation of a War Council gives us this opportunity. As a representative body of McGill Students it will coordinate and direct the energies of each of our faculties, and clubs, and of each one of us. As an engineering student, I am interested in such problems as, "Industrial Efficiency in Wartime Canada," "A Labour Policy in Wartime," "The Need for Trained Personnel." I feel that if my knowledge was deeper and more specific on these questions I would more intelligently see my part in Canada's War Effort both now and on graduation. It might be possible for our Engineering Undergraduate Society to organize discussion and to get speakers to address us on these topics.

Other faculties and groups could discuss other topics, whether they be questions of economics, the role of the sciences in democracies at war, or medical problems and so forth. The purpose of this educational program would be to give the students a clearer understanding of what is expected from them and to prevent confusion today and upon graduation. (Cf. Letter from Howard White, Oct. 21).

Then, of course, we could continue to conduct and extend our salvage campaigns, raising money for the McGill War Fund to buy ambulances, guns, etc. and to support the War Relief Program of the Red Cross.

All these activities can be carried out. If done in a bold and efficient manner through a War Council they will do much to bring honour to McGill students and to unite them closer with other Canadians, both in civilian life and in the Services, who today are sacrificing so much for Victory.

Sincerely,

have been disappointed during these first few weeks at the college to find that some of our home-town newspapers are no longer available in the Union Reading Room.

Those of you who prefer The Gazette and The Star, all well and good—but how about consideration for the rest of us who care to know what's going on back home!

We're referring particularly to the absence of the Ottawa Citizen from the Reading Room, but are anxious to see all of last year's stock of out-of-town newspapers returned.

How about some action?

All Women Students Urged To Attend

The semi-annual meeting of the McGill Women Students' Athletic Association will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the common room of R.V.C. Various awards will be made to the following students listed below. A good attendance by all women students is expected as interesting details of the current year will be cleared up.

Awards

Senior "M", Swimming, M. Holden.

Junior "M", Hockey, J. Shaw, E. McGowan, S. Wilson, R. Castle, N. Taylor, M. Graham.

Basketball, M. Dakin.

The following students won M.W.S.A.A. athletic awards last year. Since no student is entitled to wear a McGill "M" until she has been admitted to Second Year, these awards were not presented last Spring but will be presented at the Semi Annual Meeting of the Association on Tuesday, October 28th, 1941, at 4 p.m. in R.V.C.

STRATHCONA SHIELD

Small replicas of the Strathcona Shield are presented to the student in each year who has the highest athletic standing for the year. Presentation of these shields will be made to the following winners for the 1940-41 Season:

Third Year—Margaret McKay.

Second Year—Barbara Mercer.

First Year—Mary Holden.

Presentation of the Fourth Year shield to Maryellen Rossiter; and the M.S.P.E. shield to Pauline Wadsworth has already been made.

Students of the upper years who did not receive their letters or certificates at the annual banquet last Spring may apply for them to Mrs. Tyrrell, Physical Education Office, R.V.C.

Gymnastic Club Starts Today

Newcomers Especially Welcomed Out

The first gymnastic practice of the season has been scheduled for today, October 28th, at 5.00 p.m. The practice is to be held in the gymnasium and will consist of a light workout on all pieces of apparatus.

The Gymnastic Club especially welcomes those who have done any gymnastics either in public school, high school, college, or elsewhere, and urges freshmen and any others at McGill for the first time to be sure to turn out.

There is a big place in the gymnastic club for beginners and every man who turns out is assured the personal attention of the coach and his squad of leaders.

All of last year's club members are expected to be on hand to assist in acclimatizing the newcomers. The following are particularly urged to turn out: Jerry Leonards, Basil Burgess, Don Spearman, Terry Leslie, Bill Weber, E. G. Mahon, Bill Braye, Jim Savage, Hy Hershman, Jack Williams, John Foster, Rose Johnson, Ernest Skutesky, Jim McKee, Guy Grimaldi, John Simpson, Joe Sabbath, G. Bowen, Klas Hellstrom, and Norm Taylor.

Last year the Gymnastic Club played a prominent part in the Gymkhana, assisted considerably in the M.R.T.B. training program in the capacity of squad leaders, provided a hit number for the Junior Prom, and organized and participated in one of the finest Wicketed Meals of all time. This year, the club executive, which consists of Hay Finlay as Honorary President, Terry Leslie as Manager, John Simpson as Assistant Manager, Bill Weber as Captain, and Em Orlick as Coach, has laid plans for an even bigger and better season.

Red Shorts by irene

The most important item for this week is the first semi-annual meeting of the M.W.S.A.A., which takes place this week at 4.00 o'clock in the R.V.C. common room. Everybody is asked to attend as the managers will read their reports, and all last year's awards will be presented. To add to the enjoyment, tea will be served to all those present.

We are beginning to think that there is a jinx about the coeds' tennis this year. Every time the players want to play, it rains—last Saturday it snowed. It looks as though Barbara Mercer, who is in the finals, will have to wait an awful long time to find out whether or not she will win the Tennis Cup.

There was a swell turnout at the armory on the badminton courts last Saturday night. We always sort of considered knocking a birdie around was a girl's game, but judging from the number of he-men that showed up we have to change our mind. The girls certainly enjoyed themselves, as they think that playing with stronger players helps a lot. Besides the mixed games there will be a practice night every Thursday night at 8 o'clock in R.V.C.

Archery is again taking the spotlight, if we look on the long list on the notice board. The next practice is on Thursday afternoon at 4.00 P.M. in R.V.C. These meetings are very important for all those interested in going to Macdonald College in the middle of November. The coeds are also reminded that McGill will be in the inter-collegiate Telegraphic Meet—Wouldn't it be wonderful if the red and white shorts won it?

We were asked to remind the girls that there is a new Modern Dance Club this year, so far the group has been quite large but there is room for more. Miss Wagner has started a junior club for those that have never had that kind of dancing before, so there are no excuses if you are really interested.

Last week we mentioned something about the crooked lines in the gym classes, this week we are apologizing. The girls really can't imagine what a picture they make all in "red and white" and doing those leg exercises all in unison—even the workman stopped to admire the scenery.

Guess we had better stop this or the Engineers might get ideas—and we really don't want to let any secrets out of the bag. So long until next Tuesday, and try not to forget the meeting this afternoon, will you?

New Schedule Will Start in Soccer

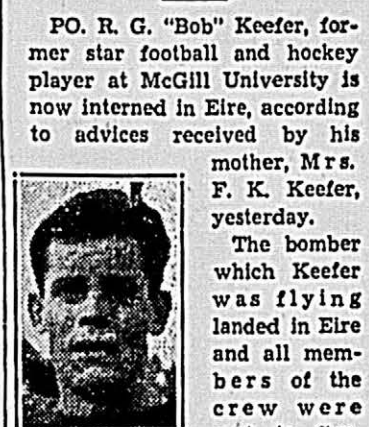

The only companies to turn out to their scheduled games so far this season have been: Air Force 1; Air Force 2; "C" Coy.; "E" Coy.; and Independents.

The representatives of these companies are asked to get in touch with Hay Finlay, at the Athletics office for the purpose of arranging a playoff series between their companies at the earliest opportunity.

It is important that those companies which have teams in soccer get in touch with Hay Finlay immediately to arrange games for the balance of the season.

The balance of the regular schedule is therefore cancelled and a new schedule will be published immediately after the representatives of their respective teams have made the necessary arrangements.

Bob Keefer Interned; Was Star for McGill

PO. R. G. "Bob" Keefer, former star football and hockey player at McGill University is now interned in Elre, according to advices received by his mother, Mrs. F. K. Keefer, yesterday. The bomber which Keefer was flying landed in Elre and all members of the crew were sent to Curragh Camp. Observer of the plane was PO. Jack Calder, a former Canadian Press newspaperman who was both an editor and sports writer in Montreal and Toronto. In addition to his exploits on the gridiron Keefer performed for McGill's championship hockey teams and took part in all campus athletics. He went to England last April and has been engaged in flying bombers ever since.

The cable stated Keefer's plane landed in Elre on October 24.

Air Force Play Host to Macdonald Wednesday

Both Teams Gunning for First Win

The major attraction on the football front tomorrow will see the Air Force squad play host to the Aggies of Macdonald which should turn out to be a hum-dinger.

Both teams will be gunning for that initial triumph and with the humbly dumpty position at stake, the fracas in all probability should be wide open and no strings pulled. The Airmen, champions of the league last year, and virtually out of this year's running, have been plagued with injuries particularly their half back star Jim Rapelle. However the latter is expected back tomorrow and should bear some watching by the Aggies.

TWO ON SHELF

Macdonald will be fielding a makeshift lineup as several of their performers are out on the shelf. They came out of that game Saturday with the soldiers disastrously, as two more men were out for the season.

It would be a nice change if a few students would attend some of these games because the brand of football displayed well merits the attention it should receive. Macdonald College in one home game has outdrawn all the games at Molson Stadium in the College circuit. The game on Friday of this week brings together the two leaders, Army and Navy, and this tilt should be one of the feature games in the East this year.

Harriers Grind For Hanover Track Meet

With the Triangle track meet at Hanover, New Hampshire, less than a week away, the harrier team is making final preparations for the tough four and a half mile grind. Yesterday most of the team sloshed through the mud and muck covering the road around the mountain, on "just a routine run."

Joe Berman, second seeded McGill harrier, has returned to the scene of activities after a short absence caused by a faulty knee. Adhesive tape was much in evidence on all runners, as the boys took precautions against straining or stitching in the final week of practice. Also noticeable was the presence of Lloyd Cooke, distance running star of former McGill teams. Cooke turned out both yesterday and Saturday to run with the team, although he is not in serious training. Even without conditioning, he was found running well up with the leaders.

The very few passers-by up around the Chalet looked on with apparent lack of sympathy at these poor deluded individuals scampering about in the slow but nevertheless drenching rain. The long flat stretches were broken up with the occasional steeplechase through the woods and over hills. By the time the team rolled into the home stretch down Park Avenue and across Fletcher's Field, it was getting rather dark and running was a bit treacherous over the slippery footpaths, as is evidenced by the fact that two runners took falls, fortunately without injury.

Training will conclude on Wednesday with a short, hard run over the three mile route, after which the team will rest up for the weekend meet at Dartmouth.

It's fast, it's free, and it's fun—even for beginners, and it's something new for co-eds. All those interested should sign the lists in R.V.C. common room, and on the science notice board. Racquets are provided for beginners.

BADMINTON LOCKER KEYS.

Women students who plan to play badminton on Saturday evening should have lockers at the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium. Mrs. Tyrrell will be in her office from eleven to twelve o'clock Tuesday to Friday, and keys may be obtained from her at those hours for a deposit of 25c.

Softball Games To Be Five Inning Affairs

For those Joe DiMaggio's and Ted Williams' the new softball schedule issued today will prove interesting.

All games are to be played in the Gymnasium and will be not more than 5 innings in duration.

Teams which fail to show up for a scheduled game at the appointed time are penalized by not receiving the participation points and are liable to be dropped from the league altogether.

(AF-1) and (AF-2) respectively refer to the two R.C.A.F. teams entered in our schedule. Independents are now divided into two teams as follows: (Ind-1) captained by Graves and (Ind-2) captained by Dion. All independents desiring to play are asked to get in touch with these two men.

The above series of games will be followed by the Final Playoffs in which only the high-point teams will be allowed to participate. To make sure that your Company is represented in the Finals be sure to have a full team out for each game which you are scheduled to play.

Snooker Tournament
All students interested in participating in the coming snooker tournament are asked to leave their names with George in the Union Billiard Room as soon as possible.

Track Equipment

McGill Netmen Oppose U. of Montreal Today

Local Courts Scene of Action After Long Delay

The weather stretched its winning streak to a solid week in the Inter-Varsity tennis tournament, as the match has been again delayed due to rain. It is hoped that the elements may be turned back in defeat today, in order that the competition may be completed before the weather again intervenes in the form of snow.

EIGHT MCGILL PLAYERS.

However it is necessary to have a dry court, and the match, scheduled to start at 2 p.m. will be further postponed if conditions are not satisfactory. Strong opposition will be offered to McGill's top eight tennis players, in four singles and two doubles matches. Bob Watt will lead teammates Henneman, Richer and Macken into the singles fixtures, while the doubles representatives are Robinson, Heinrich, Marlen and Thompson.

WATT RECEIVES TROPHY

An interesting sidelight of the tournament will be the presentation of the Dr. Martin Trophy to Bob Watt, winner of this year's singles tournament at McGill. Mrs. Vaughan, whose husband presented the cup to the McGill Tennis Club, will be on hand to perform the ceremony.

In inaugurating this tournament, a precedent is being established in local tennis circles. It is hoped that the event may become an annual one, as it has the added advantage of offering further incentive of competition for future tennis enthusiasts.

SEMI-FINALS DOUBLES

Later on in the afternoon, at 5 p.m., again weather permitting, the second semi-final doubles tournament within the university will be played. The team of Heinrich-Robinson will oppose Thompson and McMartin. Following is a list of McGill players together with their U. of M. opponents.

Wait-Leon Derome, Henneman-Paul Fortin, Richer-Henri Lephellier, Macken-Bernard Ficoite.

Doubles: Robinson-Heinrich vs. Jean Martin and Jean Grignon, Marlen-Thompson vs. Marcel Pimfommeau and Jean Menard.

R.V.C. Fencing Club Sees Canuck Champion

Yesterday would have been one of the greatest annals of the R.V.C. Fencing Club—if more people had turned up. Mr. Tully, Canadian champion and a member of the 1936 Olympic team, and a fellow champion fencer gave an exhibition of bouting with foils, sabers, and duelling sword and dagger. These two are the only fencers in Canada today who using sword and dagger at the same time effectively and although they only use it for exhibition purposes Mr. Tully explained that in days of duelling both were necessary—the dagger to finish the opponent.

To those who were there Mr. Tully's method seems new and interesting and infinitely more strenuous than what the girls have been used to. The attendance yesterday was very small, but drastic measures are going to be taken next week to have a good turn-out.

All fencers be sure to come either on Monday or Tuesday from 5-6. Remember its Tuesday not Wednesday.

Sports 'n' Stuff BY COLLE

as Johnny Ferraro booted the pig-skin almost to the Sarnia 5, where it was gathered in by Stirling. This latter gent then started forward, and the crowd's cheers turned to groans as he kept eluding tackler after tackler, side-stepping, straight-arming, weaving his way through practically the entire local team, and being stopped finally in the vicinity of the Nats 5! This, gentlemen, was the first play of the game, and the Bummer had let it be known to all and sundry that a guy named Stirling was around—with a 100-yard run-back as an introduction. To impress our cousins from south of the border, it is emphasized that this was done without the aid of interference, mirrors or a motor-cycle.

The Versatility Kid.

Well, before the final gun had sounded, Monsieur Stirling had the local half-backs in a dither over his towering hoists, uncorking a few 65 yard ones for variety, had ripped the National's line to shreds with his shattering plunges, was a bulwark of strength on the secondary defence, had shown himself a capable passer and receiver, and had the down-field tacklers grasping thin air on many an occasion. In brief, Bummer did everything but sell programs in the stands, and carry the water bucket.

That individual football exhibition was the greatest this observer has ever seen. I wonder if I'll ever see one like it again, because until then, Hugh (Bummer) Stirling will be rated as tops in this man's books. P.S.—If any of you have different ideas about who was the greatest of them all, drop us a line at the Daily office.

loss at the Marne in the last war. Continuing he stated that although Hitler might take Moscow; annihilate the Russian armies; establish bases in Africa, and even set up superficial law and order in Europe, he still could not win. A strong factor he cited on behalf of the Allies was the powerful British Navy and the increased British air power which were keeping the Atlantic life-line open, and as long as this was open he stated that Britain could not be defeated.

His second point dealt with the economic aspect, and here he reviewed Germany's position prior to the conflict, and showed that she depended a great deal upon imports for her important industries. In this respect the conquered countries could not aid him because they had been in the same position. Further he stated that the shortage of labour in Germany was a problem, despite the conquered millions under Hitler's heel. "These factors," he said, "plus insufficient nourishment gives a picture of the growing economic weaknesses of Germany."

Finally he dealt with the morale of the German people, and on this point cited the fact that a great number of them were opposed to the Hitler regime from its beginning. Added to these are the countless who are disgusted with Hitler's march of oppression and bloodshed, and the ever increasing British bombardments. However, he stated that the Allies have been slow to take advantage of Hitler's most vulnerable point, namely, the home front, and concluded by stating that an all out Allied attack on this point could bring an end to the war in 1942.

Campus Clubs Organized For War Council

Council consists of a representative from each club or society on the campus. At the meeting on Thursday there will be a discussion of the activities which the campus organizations will be invited to promote or take part in.

The Executive Council emphasized the voluntary nature of participation, by any group, in the proposed activities and projects of the War Council. The plan is merely to pool the resources of the various clubs, and to help co-ordinate their programme as far as it is directed towards aiding the war effort on the campus. Suggestions and proposals will be welcomed for consideration at the Thursday meeting.

ed to leave their names with Bill Gentleman or Alex at the Union, between now and Friday noon.

Decorations in keeping with the spirit of Halloween will adorn the Ball Room. You are requested, said the committee, to dress in old clothes in the guise of farmers, butchers, candlestick-makers and what not for this Halloween Party.

The medical students laid their pennies down in the hall of the Medical Building in rows of sixteen yards each. At the end of the day there were six rows of pennies completed.

Red Ribbons Given.

Every person who paid his quota of coins was given a red ribbon to wear as a receipt. The red ribbons were contributed by T. Eaton Co., and the executive committee has taken this opportunity to express its gratitude to Eaton's for its donation.

The coins were counted last night in the Union by the Student Executive Council and members of the campaign committee. Willis, in giving the final report to the "Daily," said that under the circumstances of the weather Monday, the results were unexpectedly favorable, and results equally as good are expected today.

SONG WRITERS GROUP BRINGS STREAM OF BUDDING TALENT

Instituted Last Spring as Network Program Feature

Sprung from the fertile brains of the officers of the Crimson Radio Network one evening last spring when they were hunting for an original new program, the Harvard Association of Song Writers has been responsible for a juicy flow-ering of lyrics and jazz scores among the undergraduates.

Harvard's Tin Pan Alley was born during the bitter A.S.C.A.P.-B.M.I. tiff, with the impudent idea that its minstrels were going to give the two other organizations plenty of competition and make the quarrel a triangular affair.

As it worked out however, according to Program Director Robert S. Kieve '43, the H.A.S.W. which started as a joke was one of the best features of the network. Star nightingale for the weekly presentation was Margery Rice, Radcliffe '43, who sang four out of the five songs on each program. Plans for this year's singers call for a widened list of female entertainers, with an added dash of men, and feelers have been tentatively stretched in the direction of Wellesley.

The organization acts as a sort of clearing house for amateur composers in the College, since music writers at a loss for lyrics can always find a partner and vice versa.

Some Good Songs

Although members modestly refuse to comment as to whether there exists a Gershwin, Berlin, or Kern among them, several have written popular pieces which drew favorable remarks from professional musicians.

Arthur C. Hyman '42, composed a slightly erotic piece inspired by signs along the Merritt Parkway, entitled "Keep Right Except When Passing." Though now it has drifted into temporary oblivion, the most easily remembered verses go something like this: "Keep right except when passing, get control of your nerves, 'cause soft shoulders mean dangerous curves . . . Keep right except when passing, both hands on the wheel, steer straight to love, baby, you know the way I feel."

Another Hyman song rendered over the air last spring was called "You're What I've Been Missing" . . . What he missed, of course, was "that sweet kissing."—Harvard Crimson.

GERMANIC SHOWS PHOTOS OF ONLY CITY WITHOUT SLUMS

Stockholm's Architecture Is Modern, Planned By State

Stockholm is one of the few cities in Europe which has not as yet felt the imprint of the Nazi spiked boot, and its modern architecture, as exhibited in a series of photographs on display at the Germanic Museum, proves that the Swedes have made good use of their freedom. Perhaps the only city in the world without large slum districts, Stockholm was fortunate enough to escape much of the dismal blight characteristic of industrial zones like Pittsburgh and Chicago during the depression.

Program Begun In 1930

The city planning and building program which makes the Swedish capital a number one town in appearance was inspired by the Stockholm Exposition of 1930. The pavilions were all designed by one architect, Professor E. G. Asplund, and showed the influence of modern theories of design, while they steered well clear of the "modernistic" and exaggerated themes exploited by the recent American expositions.

Over 30 per cent. of Stockholm's buildings which were raised during the ten years following the display of Asplund's architecture in new public buildings were built according to the modern theories of design.
